How horror films use neuroscience and psychology to scare

October 31st, 2017 - It s October the perfect time for scaring yourself with a spooky film Some people adore the rush they get from watching a horror flick others can t stand how filmmakers somehow worm their way into your consciousness building up tension and then striking that moment of terror with a jump scare or with some creepy moment that seems to burn'

'Horror movies do something incredible to your brain

*March 16th, 2016 - That s a powerful effect Think of the last time you jumped yelped or gasped during a horror film Usually when we re watching something we ve shut down the motor regions of the brain and yet those stimuli from a shocking scene are so strong that they overcome the inhibition to the motor"*Amnesia in the movies ? Neurophilosophy

March 1st, 2009 - In her review Baxendale examines common misconceptions of amnesia found in the cinema and suggests that knowledge of them can guide clinicians when informing patients and their relatives about diagnoses"
